

10/15/2007
IAP233
10/15/2007

Abstract

A pruning assembly including an elongate supporting body, right and left jaw members hinged together and movable along the supporting body and each having three set of blade members mounted on actuator means and alternatively displaced above and below a plane to form two staggered rows of three bores each, the actuator means adapted to maintain the clearance between the trunk and each set of blade members.